

A Personality Feature of Paramount Interest and Importance to readers of

The Washington Times

THE NATIONAL DAILY

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW

---for more than half a century an outstanding figure in American politics, noted as a speaker and called America's greatest living wit and raconteur---at 88 has written the recollections of his long life which in human interest, humor and anecdote are equal to everything that could have been expected from him.

This is a series of delightfully written recollections and anecdotes of the world's principal characters during the last fifty years. It is not tiresomely descriptive of their beliefs and accomplishments but deals entirely with their human side, picturing them in their lighter moments and recounting the anecdotes they related and stories they told, many of which are printed for the first time.

In his sixty years of public life, Chauncey M. Depew not only has known all the Presidents of the U. S. from Lincoln to Harding, and all the famous men in politics, business, journalism, the stage and society in general, but has been on terms of close personal friendship with almost all of them. His remarkable gift for good fellowship and humor aroused a like feeling in others, and caused men to show to him a side of themselves not often to be seen by the public. In these recollections of famous figures he has chiefly recorded those human traits and incidents that make them most alive. He tells new stories about Lincoln, Grant, Seward, Greeley, Beecher, Roosevelt, Choate, the late King Edward, Joseph Jefferson, Mark Twain and many others.

"My Interview With President Lincoln"

First of 12 Delightful Stories—One Each Sunday in

The Washington Times

THE NATIONAL DAILY

NEXT SUNDAY

12 Weekly Sunday Stories

By Chauncey M. Depew

In Following Order

- I. My Interview With President Lincoln.
- II. How Grant Joked in Death's Shadow.
- III. Horace Greeley's Classic "Aside."
- IV. How Roosevelt's Career Was Launched at Delmonico's.
- V. Anecdotes I Heard at the Court of St. James.
- VI. Governor Tilden's Bottle of Johannisberger.
- VII. The Humorous Side of Railroad.
- VIII. When Wales Gave Mark Twain a Dinner.
- IX. Some Famous Platform Idols.
- X. When Russell Sage Tried to Make a Will.
- XI. How Mansfield Held Up a Critic.
- XII. The Way I Got My Title of "The Peach."

One of Ninety-One

Big Features in

Washington's Metropolitan Sunday Newspaper

INCLUDING

American Weekly Magazine

Order From Your Newsdealer Today

or Phone Main 5260 and Have The Times Delivered to Your Home
Every Sunday by Carrier